

At first Juan says to Homer:

Praying does not pay the rent and praying does not fill up the gas. God ain't gonna get behind this counter and sling hash. Me? I gotta fill my wallet...The sisters ask you something, you tell them no. Keep right on going.

Later Juan gets the other local men to help Homer build the chapel. Why does Juan change his mind?

What country do the nuns come from? Why did they leave their home?

When Mr. Ashton first talks to Homer, he calls him "Boy" as an insult. But after they're done talking, Homer decides to stay and build the chapel for the nuns. How does the conversation with Ashton change his mind?

Why does Homer want to build the chapel by himself?

Throughout the movie, Homer wants Mother Maria to say "Thank you" to him. Why does she resist this?

The title comes from Matthew's Gospel in the Bible. What does it have to do with the movie?
